The following text is for question 9—10

I think my first trip to New Zealand was the best experience of my life. I met quite a lot of nice people here. I made acquaintance with Jenny, Harry, Joseph, Remy and Bryan. They introduce me to their families. We had barbeque time in Remy's and Joseph's houses. Joseph and Jenny are brother and sister while Remy and Bryan are twins.

You can find sleep almost everywhere in New Zealand. The tranquil meadow where the sheep graze always appear in my mind every time. I go to sleep. Jenny's father has a lot of sheep and he showed me his wool cutting machinery, which he used to collect the sheep's fur before processing in to wood thread.

For some people touring as relaxing experience. Yet, for me it is completely the opposite, I had to spend time more than 24 hours in the same clothes with greasy hair and 3 hours of sleep. I would rather have travelled from Auckland to Milford Sound in more easy way. We could have spent a night or so in hotel, not in our vehicle.

However, having a bunch of friends along the way perked me up it make me want to come back to New Zealand again.

- What is the text talk about?
 - The friendship of few teenagers in New Zealand
 - Writer's experience in New Zealand

The Legend of Guava

A long time ago, there's a king who ruled a rich, prosperous Island. He had all the things a king could ever ask for the power, the wealth, and all the delicious foods one could only imagine. The king's name was King Barabas.

King Barabas is a rude king and overweight, indulging himself to all the foods available, hesitant to share. And his castle is starting to become filthy. He would spend most of his time sitting and eating with his bare hands. As he eats, he drips food on the floor and smile mockingly at the people around him, specially his servants.

People in the kingdom would approach with request for his help, but he would always refuse. As he neglected his kingdom, people started to complain and starve.

After some time, an old hunched-back woman showed up at the castle begging for food while the king was eating. The old lady asked for food as she was starving.

"Go away! I don't have anything to give. Can't you see I'm eating?" said the king.

"Please, my king," said the old woman. "I'm asking for anything, anything you could give me as I am so hungry. Even a little piece of bread or fruit would do."

"Get out at once! You disgust me," the king belittled the old beggar.

The old woman stood up straight, casting aside her stooped posture. "I've heard much about you and how your kingdom is suffering." The tone of her voice had changed. It was no longer the voice of a weak, old woman. "I asked for help, and you shoved me away. You have a lot for yourself, but when I only asked for a little food, you belittled me. You are selfish. No one loves you and no one will remember you when you are gone!" And the beggar disappeared.

After a few more days, the king slowly weakened and became sick. No one knows what's wrong with him. He got weaker and weaker and lost much weight. He looked older than his age. Soon after that, the king died. As unfortunate and unexpected as it was, no one cried and nobody showed up at the king's burial. He died alone. And where the king was buried, his people noticed a strange plant growing, a plant they had never seen before. The plant soon grew into a tree, which bore rounded fruits that turned yellowish when ripe.

People also noticed that the fruit seemed to have a crown as it develops, which reminded them of their selfish, arrogant king. The flesh of the fruit tasted a bit sour, just like the sour personality of the king towards them

The people learned to eat the fruit, which helped them with starvation. And because the tree was from the grave of their King Barabas and it has crown just like their king, they named the tree after him barabas, which in time they called bayabas.

The fruit is still called, as to this day, bayabas.

My Most Unforgettable Holiday

In 2015, I went to Derawan Island with my friends and that marks my most memorable holiday ever!

In June, our school was having summer holiday, so we thought ourselves that it shouldn't go to waste. We quickly browsed the internet to find a good holiday destination and after an hour of heated debate, the four of us agreed to give Derawan Island a try. It was purely out of curiosity as none of us had been there before. We arrived at Soekarno-Hatta International Airport at 05.30 a.m. as the flight was at 07.00 a.m. First, we flew to Balikpapan and waited for about an hour to continue the flight to Berau. As soon as we touched down in Berau, my friend called the tour agent that we had contacted earlier in Jakarta. They had got a car ready to take us to Labuan Batu. From Labuan Batu, we took a speedboat for about an hour to Derawan Island. It was such a long trip to Derawan but it all paid off as soon as we saw how beautiful the island was.

My friends and I were quickly ushered to our rooms in the resort. It was fantastic! The rooms were in a cottage that was situated right above the sea. So we only had to step out the terrace to find ourselves out in the open sea! After unpacking our luggages and washing up, we went to the dining hall to grab our dinner. The dinner was only simple seafood dishes. The surrounding totally enhanced the dining experience, making the food taste much better.

The following day, we took a speedboat tour, hopping from the island to another. Our first trip stop was Kakaban Island where we hiked to reach the lake and swam among stingless jellyfish. The last time I heard, there were only three places in the world that have stingless jellyfish; two of them in Indonesia! Isn't that great? The next stop was the Sangalaki Island where we got to visit sea turtle conservation and took lots of pictures with sea turtle babies. They were so cute!

Our last stop was the Maratua Island where we were able to feed fish and see a three-legged sea turtle. The three-legged sea turtle wasn't born that way. We were told that it was swimming in the open sea when it was still a baby then its leg got caught in plastic trash and couldn't grow even when the sea turtle reached adulthood. One of the island's guards saw the sea turtle and saved it. He also untangled the plastic trash that bound the sea turtle's leg but it was too late. Since then, the sea turtle is kept in a special space next to the resort in Maratua Island and the guards take turns feeding it to ensure its survival. This is why we should never litter and endanger other creatures! After Maratua Island, we headed back to Derawan Island to catch a late dinner and turned in.

The following morning, we wake up early and ate our breakfast in the dining room. Then, the driver drove us back to the airport so we could catch a flight back to Jakarta. We arrived at Jakarta, exhausted but terribly happy! It was the most unforgettable trip I have ever experienced so far!

16. What is the writer's purpose in writing the text?
 - A. To share the readers the writer's most enjoyable experience
 - B. To inform to the readers about the beauty of Derawan Island
 - C. To invite readers to visit the holiday destination mentioned
 - D. To give readers some insights on how to have a great holiday
 - E. To warn readers to be careful and mindful in order to have a great holiday
17. What did the writer learn in the Maratua Island?
 - A. Littering can endanger sea creatures
 - B. We should save three legged turtles from extinction
 - C. Sea creatures depend on human beings for their survival
 - D. Maratua Island is the best habitat for three legged turtles

- E. Save Maratua Island, and you will save the three legged.

Try the following tips.

1. Stay out of the sun during peak hours. While these times may vary slightly depending on the season and where you live. You should be indoors if all possible between 10:00 and 15:00.
2. Keep covered up. Floppy hats and large umbrellas work well and so do cover ups. Long sleeved cotton shirts are excellent for hiking, cycling etc; see your sports store for special brands that allow breathing as well as cover up.
3. Use sunscreen on any exposed areas. An SPF of 45+ is recommended for it allows even the fairest skinned folks to stay out in the sun for a few hours before reapplying. Try chopstick on your lips. Follow the instructions on sunscreen carefully. Always reapply after leaving the water, as it'll have washed off.
4. Don't forget hard to reach places. Don't forget to cover the backs of your knees, back of your neck, elbows and back of your ears (if you have short hair). Feet should also be included if you are wearing sandals, flip flops or going bare foot. Even these places can hurt a lot with sunburn.
Don't lie in the sun purposefully seeking a tan. This is not only you try it at the beginning of the season. If you want to tan, do it gradually and sensibly, with short exposure and building up over time.
5. Put a small amount of oil or sunscreen in your hair so you will avoid burning your scalp. Or cover it with a hat. Some shampoos and hair conditioners contain SPF protection.

Company Address
February 15, 2018

Dear Mr. Ryan Bardolf.

This email is in regards to my interest in applying for the position recently posted through website as a Forensic Technology Consultant. With my skill set and competencies, I am more than able to investigate several forensic examination processes and monitor security systems for multiple fortune 500 companies.

While pursuing an Associate Degree in Information Security and Digital Forensics from Trident Community College. I have developed skills in reverse engineering, computer forensics, networking and information security. This knowledge has enabled me to operate in Windows and Linux platforms and master multiple security principles.

I started my career as an Information Security Intern with Chicago Government in May 2017. Working under the direction of senior members, I monitored the overall security of the system and investigated likely loopholes. Utilizing my academic and professional knowledge, I dedicated two years with Technology Smart while working in the capacity of Network Operations Center Monitoring Technician. Here I gained an opportunity to work in a Datacenter environment, improve existing documentation systems and implement stringent measures to improve the overall network security.

I currently work as a Security Operations Center Security Analyst with Security Professionals Inc., where I have been able to further strengthen my technical skills.

Recycling is important in today's world if we want to leave this planet for our future generations. It is good for the environment, since we are making new products from the old products which are of no use to us. There are many reasons why it's important to recycle as much as possible.

Making new products out of recycled materials reduces the need to consume precious resources. So recycling helps protect raw materials and protect natural habitats for the future.

Using recycling materials in the manufacturing process uses considerably less energy than that required for producing new products from raw materials.

Recycling reduces the need for extracting (mining, quarrying and logging), refining and processing raw materials all of which create substantial air and water pollution. As recycling saves energy, it also reduces greenhouse gas emissions, which helps to tackle climate change.

There are over 1,500 landfill sites in the UK and in 2001, this sites produced a quarter of the UK's emissions of methane, a powerful greenhouse gas that is released as the biodegradable waste (such as food and paper) decomposes. Existing landfill sites filling up fast and there is very limited space for new ones.

A massive reduction in the amount of waste we send to landfill is required if we are to avoid the heavy fines and the landfill taxes that are being imposed by Central Government on councils that exceed their landfill allowances. Increases in your Council Tax or service cuts in other areas would be the only way of paying these penalties.

31. What does the text highlight?
- Reasons to recycle
 - Conserving the energy
 - Protecting the environment
 - Environmental construction
 - Saving money through recycling
32. We know from the text that ... if we recycle.
- landfill sites will decrease
 - climate change will continue
 - more new products will be reduced.
 - natural habitats will never be affected.
 - air and water pollution will be affected.
33. "Recycling reduces the need for extracting (mining, quarrying and logging), refining and processing raw materials all of which create substantial air and water pollution." Based on this quote, we conclude that the writer is telling us that
- Recycling saves us money
 - Recycling reduce landfill
 - Recycling saves energy
 - Recycling conserves raw material
 - Recycling helps to protect the environment
34. Recycling reduces the need for extracting ... it reduces pollution.

The following is for questions 44–45

Biodiesel is a clean burning substitute for petroleum based diesel fuel. Biodiesel is made of vegetable oil.

To make or manufacture biodiesel, you must first start with raw materials. The raw materials needed in the productive of biodiesel are a small amount of methanol and a ready supply of vegetable product. One of the most common vegetables used in the production of Biodiesel is corn, although depending on the geographic location of the manufacturing facility, many other plants are used as well (rapeseed, soybeans, flaxseed, etc.). The first step is to use the raw vegetable product to make vegetable oil. Vegetable oil by itself will not be what you need to power a car, from here it has to be processed into biodiesel.

The process for converting vegetable oil into Biodiesel is sometimes called ester interchange. To complete this process the vegetable oil has to be combined with a smaller amount of methanol and then put in the presence of a small quantity of an alkaline catalyst (for example, 5% to 1% sodium hydroxide). Vegetable oil is made up of so-called triglycerides, which is a compound of the trivalent alcohol glycerin with three fatty acids. The goal of ester interchange is to separate the glycerin molecule from the three fatty acids and replace it with three methanol molecules. This process then yields roughly 90% biodiesel and 10% of a glycerin by product. The glycerin by product can be used in a number of other chemical processes for different industries.

44. What are interchange in the process of ester interchange?
- A. the glycerin molecules and three fatty acids
 - B. three fatty acids and the methanol molecules
 - C. the glycerin molecules and the methanol molecules
 - D. the glycerin molecules and the water molecules
 - E. the water molecules and three fatty acids
45. What is the communication purpose of the text?
- A. To share the readers about biodiesel
 - B. To inform to the readers about the biodiesel's manufacturing
 - C. To invite readers to visit the biodiesel's factory
 - D. To give readers some insights on the biodiesel' factory
 - E. to explain the processes that occur in the biodiesel's manufacturing

The Jakarta-based Human Rights Working Group (HRWG) hopes the upcoming meeting between the Indonesian government and a United Nations committee on migrant workers will provide momentum for the country to revise its regulations on the protection of migrant workers' rights.

HRWG program manager Daniel Awigra said that the committee may push countries, including Indonesia, to align their laws with universal standards, as cited in the International Convention on the Protection of the Rights of All Migrant Workers and Member of Their Families.

"In our report submitted to the committee, we urge the committee to recommend that the government (heed) the convention in the revision of the 2004

Law on the Protection of Indonesian Migrant Workers," Daniel said in a statement on Thursday.

He added that the revision had been deliberated at the House if Representatives. The latest draft, however, still favored private recruitment agencies and lacked tight standards in the recruitment process, he said.

The UN committee will hold a dialogue for the first time with Indonesia on September 4 to 6 in Geneva, Switzerland, regarding the government's progress in implementing the multilateral convention on migrant worker protection. In April, Indonesia sent an initial report to the committee as a requirement for countries that have ratified the convention. (kuk/bbs)
